INTRODUCTION

This is the fourth volume of the Lancaster series (Part II) of the edition of the London customs accounts (TNA: PRO E122). It is comprised of 1) the tunnage and poundage controlment roll for 1431/32; 2) the petty customs controlment roll for 1432; 3) the tunnage and poundage particulars of account for 1432/33; and 4) the petty customs particulars of account for 1432/33.

Everything the reader needs to understand about the English customs system – and the peculiarities of the customs administration in London – has been detailed in the introduction to the pilot volume.<sup>1</sup> There are, however, some issues relating to the tunnage and poundage accounts for 1431/32 and 1432/33 which need to be discussed. In the first account (I: E122/77/1), the auditor marked up the account to distinguish four different categories of merchants: aliens, Hansards, Genoese and Venetians. In addition, the controlment roll distinguishes between wine (vinum) and sweet wine (vinum dulce), while the auditor marked up these imports as having been executed by aliens, Genoese or Venetians. In the second tunnage and poundage account (III: E122/73/6 & 5 etc.) four more categories were added to the markup scheme: Florentines, merchants of Dieppe, mercers and indigenous merchants. These novelties will require some explanation.

FIRST TUNNAGE AND POUNDAGE ACCOUNT (1431/32)

The first question to be addressed is the auditor's markups in the margin of the account. These distinguish between four different categories of merchants: aliens, Hansards, Genoese and Venetians. In order to explain this, we must return to the history of tunnage and poundage. It will be recalled that, in 1428, parliament had granted the king poundage on indigenous imports and exports for one year only (4 Apr. 1428-4 Apr. 1429),<sup>2</sup> after which indigenous merchandise was to be free of subsidy. When parliament re-imposed poundage on the indigenous merchants in 1429, it mandated the old rates (12d/£), but limited the period in which the crown could collect the subsidy to the period from 6 Dec. 1429 to 12 Jan. 1431, a bit more than a year.<sup>3</sup> Meanwhile, the still valid, old grant of poundage (1429) on alien merchandise was slated to run to 11 Nov. 1431.<sup>4</sup> Thus, as parliament envisaged matters in 1429, indigenous merchandise would have become invisible to the collectors of tunnage and poundage as of 13 Jan. 1431, while alien merchandise would continue to be subject to the subsidy until Martinmas. However, early in 1431, parliament again granted poundage to the king, this time making the period in which the crown could collect the subsidy from indigenous and alien merchants identical (12 Jan. 1431-11 Nov. 1432), but exempting indigenous cloth exports from poundage<sup>5</sup> and imposing a surcharge of 6d in the pound on all alien merchandise, bringing the total charge to 18d/£.<sup>6</sup>

This, of course, meant that in the period for which Thomas Walsyngham and John Olney accounted in our first account (29 Sept. 1431-10 Mar. 1432) indigenous cloth exports were invisible, while all aliens were subjected to a unitary charge of 18d/£ on their imports and exports. However, three groups of alien merchants refused to give up without a fight. On 16 June 1431 the Venetians and Genoese obtained a mandate from the king, directing the customers to charge them no more than the traditional rate of poundage (12d/£) on their merchandise,<sup>7</sup> and on 10 May 1431, the Hanseatic merchants – referring to their privileges, which excluded new charges on their merchandise – obtained a stay of collection of the surcharge, posting surety in chancery<sup>8</sup> for payment of the surcharge should the king's council determine that they did, in fact, owe it.

When the auditor sat down to mark up the account and determine the total charge to be imposed on the customers, he had no choice but to distinguish between four groups of alien merchants: 1) the Genoese, who were off the hook as far as the poundage surcharge was concerned; 2) the Venetians, also exempt from the surcharge; 3) the Hansards, who were only provisionally free of the surcharge until <sup>7</sup> These mandates were not enrolled, but they are mentioned in the enrolled account (TNA: PRO, E356/16 m 21: printed in the web version A 3 § 6). There it is stated that the customers did not respond regarding the poundage surcharge per 2 brevia regis Henrici Sexti de magno sigillo suo data 16<sup>o</sup> die Junii anno regni sui 9<sup>o</sup> [16 June 1431] eisdem collectoribus directa et super comptum eorundem de anno proxime precedenti annotata et liberata. Since these mandates were not enrolled, it is impossible to state whether the Venetians and Genoese managed to obtain a permanent exemption or merely a stay of collection. Nor can one say anything about the conditions under which this was granted. The audit of the customers' previous account (29 Sept. 1430-29 Sept. 1431), in the course of which they handed the king's brevia over to the Exchequer and which might have mentioned the details of the grant, would have had to have been recorded in the Lord Treasurer's Memoranda Roll (TNA: PRO, E368/204), but this document is unfit for production. When I consulted it in the early 1990s, it was already badly damaged by some sort of mold: – the parchment was breaking up into finger nail sized pieces colored pink. When I reported this, the document was simply declared unfit, but not restored. Nor has anything of the sort happened in the meantime, judging by the fact that AALT was not allowed to photograph the document c. 2007. One must assume that the mold has continued to destroy the document and that it is lost forever.

<sup>8</sup> John Beterenden of London, draper, John Brikils of London, draper, John Haddirley of London, ironmonger, and Robertus Holand of London, sherman, mainprised for Hanseatic payment of the surcharge under penalty of £100 (E368/204 Visus et status comptorum Easter m 18d; printed in the web edition A4 § 5).

final determination of their liability; and 4) the remainder of the aliens, who were subject to the full alien rate as mandated by parliament (18d/£). Correspondingly, the auditor entered Jan', Ven', Hans' and al' in the margin of the account as appropriate. Any merchant whose cargo was not marked up was, of course, indigenous and not subject to the surcharge at all.

The second issue which needs to be discussed is the fact that – in contrast to all previous tunnage and poundage accounts – the customers broke wine imports down into two categories: wine (vinum) and (Mediterranean) sweet wine (vinum dulce). The auditor marked up those imports of sweet wine executed by non-native merchants as Jan', Ven' and al' in the margin of the controlment roll.<sup>9</sup> The explanation for these novelties is that when parliament had granted tunnage and poundage to the king early in 1431 (for the period 12 Jan. 1431 to 11 Nov. 1432),<sup>10</sup> it had also imposed a surcharge on alien imports of sweet (Mediterranean) wine. For the term of the grant, aliens were required to pay 6s on each tun of such wine, while the charge for non-sweet wine remained identical for indigenous and alien importers at 3s/tun. Since this grant was in force during the accounting period in question, the customers were required to distinguish between the two categories of wine. In order to calculate the surcharge, the auditor had to distinguish between indigenous and alien importers, which he did by employing the same system of markups he had used for all other merchandise. Combining these two bits of information, it was simple to calculate tunnage on the individual wine shipments.

SECOND TUNNAGE AND POUNDAGE ACCOUNT (1432/33)

The most glaring anomaly in this account is the distinction between trade before and after 11 Nov. 1432. Up to that date, alien and Hanseatic merchants were charged the full rates as mandated by parliament in 1431: 18d/£ for poundage and 6s/tun for alien sweet wine. Indeed, corrections had to be made in the charges recorded for Hanseatic merchandise, because the customers had originally charged it at 12d/£ (e.g. Lambert Joses and Johannes Salmer, ship No. 1, p. 84). After 11 Nov. 1432, all aliens were charged 12d/£ for poundage, but the surcharge for alien sweet wine continued to be collected as mandated by parliament.

The obvious explanation for the importance of 11 Nov. 1432 is that that was the day on which the old parliamentary grant of tunnage and poundage<sup>11</sup> expired. The new grant ran from 11 Nov. 1432 for two years.<sup>12</sup> It therefore made sense to account for crown income under the both grants separately.

In regard to the first period (to 11 Nov. 1432), the customers first accounted for alien merchandise worth £86 2s 10d at 18d/£.<sup>13</sup> They then accounted for Genoese and Venetian merchandise worth £32 8s 4d at 12d/£.<sup>14</sup> As for the surcharge which parliament had mandated in 1431, the customers did not respond, but preferred royal mandates directed to the Exchequer dated 22 Feb. 1432<sup>15</sup> and 26 Nov. 1432,<sup>16</sup> freeing the Genoese and the Venetians respectively from the surcharge for the period of the old grant (12 Jan. 1431 to 11 Nov. 1432) and ordering the Exchequer not to demand this surcharge from the Genoese and Venetians. The Exchequer raised no objection to this.

The customers then accounted for poundage on Hanseatic merchandise worth £425 12d at 12d/£.<sup>17</sup> They then noted that the auditor had imposed a surcharge on this merchandise, bringing the total charge to 18d/£.<sup>18</sup> When their account was audited before the entire Exchequer in Michaelmas term 1433, they petitioned for exoneration for this sum, citing a privy seal writ dated 1 July 1433 directed to the Exchequer.<sup>19</sup> The Exchequer accepted this argument.<sup>20</sup>

Note that in all three cases, the exemption from the poundage surcharge was explicitly limited to the period of the 1431 grant (12 Jan. 1431-11 Nov. 1432). It explains the auditor's markup of the account, identifying Genoese, Venetian and Hanseatic merchants as such. However, that is where the mysteries begin, since the auditor also identified merchants from Florence and Dieppe, indigenous merchants as well as London mercers as such in the period before 11 Nov. 1432 and continued to do so after that date, albeit with no great regularity.<sup>21</sup> This is most puzzling, since neither the London mercers nor the merchants of Florence or Dieppe are mentioned anywhere in the enrolled account or the final audit. Nor is there any obvious fiscal reason to identify indigenous merchants - much less mercers - as such. Indeed, in earlier accounts, no such markup had ever been undertaken. Anyone who was not positively identified as being an alien of one sort or another was eo ipso indigenous.

Yet more mysterious is the fact that after 11 Nov. 1432 all alien imports and exports were charged poundage at 12d/£,<sup>22</sup> despite the fact that parliament had not altered the charges at all when it granted poundage for the next period (11 Nov. 1432-11 Nov. 1434).<sup>23</sup> Both before and after 11 Nov. 1432 - according to the parliamentary grants - aliens were to pay 18d/£ for poundage and 6s/tun for sweet wine, while indigenous cloth exports were free of poundage. But the enrolled account and the final audit make no mention of the poundage surcharge for aliens, although the surcharge for alien sweet wine was enforced.<sup>24</sup> Nonetheless, the auditor continued to mark up the account, distinguishing alien, Hanseatic, Venetian, Genoese, Florentine, Dieppe and indigenous merchants as well as London mercers, despite the fact that they all paid the same rate of poundage.

Before we begin to theorize about why the auditor marked up the account in the way he did, let us set out some facts. First of all, the identifications of the merchants are not based on fantasies. In particular, the mercers the auditor identified were, in fact, members of the company, as Table 1 shows.

All in all, the auditor identified 55 merchants as mercers. Of these, only five cannot be shown - by consulting independent sources - to have been mercers.

The auditor identifies only two merchants as Florentines (Benedict Boromeo and Alexander Farentyn). Both are well-known Florentine merchants.<sup>26</sup>

Finally, the auditor identifies John Lowterell, John Myfaunt (ships 76-7 p. 130), John Cachmereye, Matyn Mawner and Gilliam Botelle (ships 80-81, p. 131) as merchants of Dieppe, but these merchants are not mentioned anywhere in the accounting materials.

So what was the point of the auditor's markups? I can only surmise that it was somehow connected to the attempt - presented to parliament on 13 October 1433 - of the Treasurer, Ralph, lord Cromwell, to estimate the crown's unencumbered income, based on the receipts of the last three years.<sup>27</sup> There can be no doubt that the income from our tunnage and poundage account was subsumed in the total three treasurer gave for crown receipts from the collection of tunnage and poundage. Indeed, we do know that Cromwell 'laid before the Lords books and records of exchequer revenues' on 18 October 1433.<sup>28</sup> Conceivably, our account was one of these,<sup>29</sup> but there is no way of knowing if this was in fact so. What is clear is that Cromwell painted an exceedingly dark picture of royal finances.<sup>30</sup> Seen in this light, the markups in our tunnage and poundage account look like an idea for raising additional revenue - perhaps by forced loans or increased subsidy charges to be imposed on the groups which were singled out - which never came to anything. I must, however, emphasize that this is nothing better than an educated guess.

<sup>26</sup> On Boromeo (Borromei) see Helen Bradley (ed.), The Views of the Hosts of Alien Merchants 1440-1444 (London Record Society Publications 46), London 2012, p. 125, 272-3. Alexander Farentyn (Ferrantini) was the Florentine consul in London in 1429/30 and manager of the Alberti company in London until 1436: Michael E. Mallett, The Florentine Galleys in the Fifteenth Century, Oxford 1967, p. 245 n. 3, p. 262 n. 3.

Finally, there are a number of entries recording imports of wine which were not subject to subsidy (subs' nichil), as shown in the table below. In each case, a note has been entered in the account (beneath the entry or in the right-hand margin, depending on the space available) referring to the royal warrant which was directed to the customers. In most cases the corresponding writ is still to be found sewn onto the margin of the folio. In the others, the warrant has gone astray, but the sewing holes are visible. Since all surviving warrants have been transcribed in the web edition of this account, there is no need to go into greater detail here.

The customers' particulars of account were fiscal documents, forming an integral part of the procedure imposed on the customers when accounting for the crown's customs income before the Exchequer. As such, they were marked up by the auditor when he summed up the crown's income according to the various categories and tariffs. These marginated annotations form an integral part of the source and, in my view of it, deserve to be reproduced in full. I have done this in the following way. First of all, the auditor's summations of income at the end of each page or membrane (including the jottings reproducing the position of the counters on the counting table) have been reproduced as written in the account. Second, all other marginated notes (e.g. a cross or an asterisk indicating an error) are noted in the normal way in the critical apparatus. However, recording the eternally repetitive marginal notes on the tariff categories to which particular products belonged (panni ind', panni al', panni Hans', per breve etc.) call for a different solution, since including them in the critical apparatus would simply blimp it up to no useful purpose. Consequently, I have indicated them in the text by employing superscript letters in angle brackets (e.g. <sup><sup><sup>De Roberto Derlyngton</sup>) and resolving these in a block at the bottom of the page (Auditor's marginated notations L: <sup>panni ind').

The problem of the hundredweight is exceedingly vexed. While it is well known that a hundredweight can correspond to 100 lb., 112 lb. or 120 lb. avoirdupois,<sup>31</sup> there is no way to know which of these three values applies when a customer writes c lb. or fractions and multiples thereof. Just occasionally, when the particulars of account and the controlment roll have survived, some insight is possible, for instance if one of the two records a particular merchant's exports of pewter vessels as di' c lb. vasorum stanni and the other the same goods as lvj lb. vasorum stanni.<sup>32</sup> But these cases are far too rare to inspire confident generalizing. Consequently, I have decided to leave the matter unsolved, marking the text in such a way that the reader can easily reconstruct the entry. The most common notation of weight – multiples of 'c' – has not been marked up. Thus 'ij<sup>c</sup> lb.' is simply transcribed as 300 lb. If the thousand sign was used, the number is marked with a cross: thus, 'ij M<sup>l</sup> lb.' is transcribed as 2000† lb. (but xx<sup>c</sup> lb. as 2000 lb.) If the sign for one half is used, this is indicated by an asterisk: thus, 'di' c lb.' is transcribed as 50* lb. (but 'l lb.' as 50 lb.) And finally, if the sign for one quarter is used, this is indicated by a double cross: thus, 'c q' lb.' is transcribed as 125‡ lb.

Diplomatic Notes on the Form of the Edition

The transcriptions of Latin documents in this edition observe the conventions of the Monumenta Germaniae Historica. The source texts (and all variants) are reproduced in normal type, while editorial intrusions are printed without exception in italics (e.g. mardre L3, in error). Unambiguous abbreviations are expanded silently, without using square brackets or italics to indicate missing letters. u/v and i/j have been regularized silently to accord with pronunciation: thus vniuersalis in the source text is rendered universalis, while 'i' is transcribed if the letter is pronounced as a vowel (imperii), and 'j' if the letter is pronounced as a consonant, i.e. like the 'y' in 'you' (majestas), even if the source writes imperij and maiestas.

Personal names and place names are transcribed exactly as written and only regularized in the Index of People and Places.

Roman numerals are reproduced as Arabic numerals, except for the sovereign's ordinal (Edwardi ivth). Arabic numerals which occur in the source texts are indicated by bold type. ob' is given as ½d, q' as ¼d and ob' q' as ¾d.

Following the convention in German, I have used a full stop after a number to indicate the ordinal rather than the cardinal, if a number is not written out. Thus, 27. die Januarii (p. 147) is to be understood as vicesimo septimo die Januarii, rather than viginti septem die Januarii.

When transcribing the customs accounts, I have numbered the ships consecutively in italics in square brackets. The individual paragraphs of longer texts have also been numbered in the same way. The reason for this is that the web version of the accounts and accounting materials for the Lancastrian period has no pagination, since the amount of text displayed on the screen depends on the size of the monitor and its resolution. Consequently, cross references – whether within a single document, from one document to another or in the indices – to 'page thus-and-such' are meaningless, and some internal sub-division of the text which can be linked in is unavoidable. Since some scholars will want to use the printed version of the edition and others the web edition, it is necessary to provide a common basis. Thus, if one scholar refers to ship No. 24 in the digital version of a particular account, those using the printed version will be able to find the vessel in question.

All dates and cross references in the source texts have been resolved in italics in square brackets in the text of the edition, rather than in footnotes.

If both the particulars of account and the controlment roll survive, certain variants have been suppressed to avoid inflating the text-critical apparatus. Thus, neither the substitution of 'y' in one text for 'i' in the other (e.g. Willyamson, Williamson) nor middle English plural variants (-es, -is, -ys etc.) have been noted in the apparatus criticus. In general, I have limited the notation of textual variants to those cases in which the variant spelling of a word changes the pronunciation.

Thus, the variant federbeds will be noted against fetherbeds, but not fedderbeds or federbeddes against federbeds.

Punctuation is artificial and ignores all medieval full stops, commas and so forth. Since Latin is a syntactic language (like German), the eminently useful MGH convention – namely to employ punctuation (according to the pre-reform German rules) to mark up the grammatical structure of the sentence – has been employed here. I have also broken up the stylistically elegant, but utterly incomprehensible run-on Latin sentences of the source texts into manageable units.

Since we are dealing with late medieval administrative Latin, there are some cases which call for local by-laws.

First of all, there are a number of middle English words embedded in the Latin texts which have to be assigned a gender, since they are often modified by an abbreviated adjective (e.g. pro I parv' fetherbed). Since the adjectives are written out in a number of instances (pro I parvo fetherbed), I have arbitrarily imposed a masculine grammatical gender on all middle English words rather than litter the edition with apostrophes.

Second, the sources themselves are in a muddle as to whether the words custuma and subsidium are singular or plural, and usually avoid the problem by writing cust' and subs'. If a scribe does write out the one or the other word, it is almost inevitable that he will contradict himself, writing custuma in one line and custume a few lines later. This muddle is not merely the result of scribal carelessness or low standards of Latinity. In the fifteenth century, it was possible to differentiate between the collective noun (in the singular) denoting the charges to be paid and the individual sums (in the plural) which each merchant rendered. Even bearing this in mind, however, scribes are simply not consistent. Taking each individual text as a whole, I have done my best to reproduce what the scribe seemed to be thinking.

TUNNAGE AND POUNDAGE PARTICULARS OF ACCOUNT 29 SEPT. 1432 – 16 AUG. 1433

Particulars of account (imports) of John Chicheley and John Strangways for the issues of tunnage and poundage during the accounting period from 30 Sept. 1432 to 16 Aug. 1433

- L1 TNA: PRO, E122/172/18. Original particulars of account bound in codex form (f. 1 and f. 16 of the original account according to the customers' foliation in the upper right-hand corner of the recto-side of the folio). For the original foliation of the leaves see infra. Parchment. Unsealed (the hole for the cord for the Exchequer seal is visible in the upper left-hand corner of the recto side of the folios). Coram J. Somer has been entered in the upper right-hand corner of f. 1<sup>r</sup>. Dots have been entered (presumably by the auditor) (a) above the total value of the merchandise (or the tuns of wine) of each merchant, (b) over each merchant's subsidy charge and (c) over all figures in the summation of the issues at the bottom of the recto side of each folio.*
- L2 TNA: PRO, E122/73/6. Seamless continuation of L1 (f. 33-37, 17-24, 38-43, 25-32, 44-48 of the original account according to the customers' foliation in the upper right-hand corner of the recto-side of the folio). For the original foliation of the leaves see infra. Parchment. Unsealed (the hole for the cord for the Exchequer seal is visible in the upper left-hand corner of the recto side of the folios). Dots have been entered (presumably by the auditor) (a) above the total value of the merchandise (or the tuns of wine) of each merchant, (b) over each merchant's subsidy charge and (c) over all figures in the summation of the issues at the bottom of the recto side of each folio.*
- L3 TNA: PRO, E122/73/5. Continuation of L2 (f. 14-3 of the original account according to the Exchequer's foliation, the customers having failed to foliate this quire; between the end of L2 and the beginning of L3 three folios are lacking). Parchment. Unsealed (the hole for the cord for the Exchequer seal is visible in the upper left-hand corner of the recto side of the folios). Dots have been entered (presumably by the auditor) (a) above the total value of the merchandise (or the tuns of wine) of each merchant, (b) over each merchant's subsidy charge and (c) over all figures in the summation of the issues at the bottom of the recto side of each folio.*
- L4 TNA: PRO, E122/225/41/5. Original back cover of the import codex. Parchment. Unsealed. On the outside: Portus London'; (beneath that) Subsidium tonagii et pondagii De Navi; beneath that (heavily corrected) calculations.*

L5 TNA: PRO, E122/162/11. Original last membrane of the 10 rotuli. Parchment. Unsealed.

The foliation of this account is very confusing, not merely because it survives in five fragments. Originally, the account consisted of two codices, one containing the imports and the other the exports, and ten further membranes. Large portions of the import codex have survived (L1-L4), but only the last membrane of the 10 rotuli (L5). Adding to the complexity is the fact that the Exchequer sent pre-foliated blank codices to the customers for their account. The customers, however, turned the import codex around and began the account on the verso side of the last leaf of the Exchequer's pre-foliated blank codex. Therefore, when one opens up the codex today, the Exchequer's foliation, originally in the lower right-hand corner of the recto side of the folio, appears upside down in the upper left-hand corner of the verso side of the folio. Finally, the PRO numbered the fragments individually (in pencil) at the bottom center of the recto side of the folio, without taking any account of missing leaves. Therefore, as a rule, each individual leaf has three different foliations. The table below provides a concordance.

Given the complexity of the numbering of the folios, it seems best to provide as much information as possible. Therefore, wherever this was possible (L1, L2), I have followed the customers' foliation, followed by the modern foliation in square brackets. In L3, which the customers did not foliate, I have been forced to follow the Exchequer's original foliation. L4 and L5 do not contain any visible foliation.

INDEX OF PEOPLE AND PLACES

In accordance with current usage, the first names of Englishmen and -women have been standardized to their current forms. Thus Willelmus in the accounts is indexed as William and so forth. Italian and Spanish first names are given in the 'ablative' (Andrea, Beaceo, Roderigo rather than Andreas, Beaceus, Roderigus). The first names of other foreigners, who are largely Dutch and German, are normally indexed in something approaching their modern forms, e.g. Johannes, Jacob, Herman, Hugo rather than Hugh (which would indicate an Englishman). However, it is not possible to be entirely consistent. Take, as an example, Willelmus. Is one to index Hanseatic merchants as Wilhelm, but Dutch merchants and shippers as Willem or Wim and the Dinanters as Guillaume? To do so would simply be to introduce incredible confusion, entirely leaving aside the intractable problem of distinguishing between merchants of Dutch and Hanseatic origin. Therefore, in a number of cases I have indexed Dutch and German merchants' first names in the current English form: e.g. Paul, William, Laurence, Andrew, Henry.

Family names have been grouped, where possible, in the index, with cross references leading the reader from the variants to the main entry, which records all variant spellings in parentheses. However, given the inconsistency of the customers' scribes, I have found it impossible to resolve all doubts and have therefore tried to steer a middle course between the splitters and the lumpers. There are cases where there can be no doubt that divergent spellings denote one and the same merchant. On the other hand, there are cases where I am all but certain that variant spellings denote one person, yet am troubled by nagging doubts. In these cases I record the names separately and referred back and forth ('see also N.N.').

The order of the family names in the index is phonological, so that, for instance, 'y' is alphabetized as 'i'.

Place names are in small capitals.

INDEX OF SUBJECTS

The index is structured so as to serve as a glossary. Hence, the main entry is under the word as it appears in the sources (zinziber), and a cross-reference leads the reader from the modern English term to the main entry (ginger see zinziber). If a term is in Middle English, the plural form is also given (e.g. alle hafte, -s); if in Latin, the genitive (e.g. allec, ecis). More than one reference per page is not noted.
