INTRODUCTION

This is the first of many volumes in which all the surviving particulars of the London customs accounts (TNA: PRO E122) will be published in the original source text, which is usually Latin, but becomes increasingly English in the course of the sixteenth century.

For convenience, I have divided the edition into four series, one for each of the ruling dynasties: Plantagenet (c. 1280-1399), Lancaster (1399-1461), York (1461-85) and Tudor (1485-c. 1550). Each series is deemed to comprise a single 'part' which is divided into several numbers. This number, the first to appear, covers the London customs accounts surviving from the first four regnal years of Edward IV.

Everything the reader needs to understand about the English customs system – and the peculiarities of the customs administration in London – has been detailed in the introduction to the pilot edition.<sup>1</sup>

However, even the most cursory examination of the customs administration in London during the first four regnal years of Edward IV cannot fail to lead the observer to the conclusion that some distinctly odd things are happening. Legally, collection of the subsidies (wool subsidy, tunnage and poundage) was tied to a parliamentary grant to a particular monarch at specified rates for a specific period of time, but after his successful ejection of Henry VI from royal office on 3 March 1461 Edward IV continued to collect them, despite the fact that the parliament of Reading in 1454 had granted the subsidies to Henry VI for his lifetime only. Only when parliament granted the subsidies to Edward IV from 1 Mar. 1465 for his lifetime,<sup>2</sup> was the situation rectified. In the meantime, the customers' patents of appointment give no indication of any authority (in particular of any parliamentary grant) for their official powers.<sup>3</sup> The Yorkist monarchy simply treated the grant to Henry VI as being in force, even if this was not normally trumpeted about: The usual formulation was subsidia ante hec tempora auctoritate parliamenti ultimo concessa, which, of course, deftly avoided the disturbing question 'Which (and whose) parliament?' Nonetheless, there are occasional explicit references to the grant of the parliament of Reading as authority for this or that. For instance, the indenture drawn up on 12 March 1463 by the London wool customers and the victualler of Calais names the acte made in the parlament late holden at Redyng as authority for a particular payment (Appendix II 7). This can only be the parliament of Reading in 1453/54, since no other parliament had even been convened in Reading up to that point. Again, when Edward IV reduced the wool subsidy for indigenous merchants by 10s/sack, he made explicit reference to the grant of 1454, directing the Exchequer to dyscharge and acqyte fro the fyrst day of oure regne hyderto and fro hensforth fro tyme to tyme as long as the sayd graunte s and subsidies shuld contynue and endure.<sup>4</sup>

Those unfamiliar with the administrative history of England in the fifteenth century may be puzzled by the way the customers drew up their particulars of account and how the auditor marked up those documents. In unravelling these mysteries, it is best to begin with the wool account for 29 Sept. 1462 to 16 July 1463 (E122/73/35). As the customers drew up their particulars, they followed the usual procedure, entering the ships in chronological order and, for each ship, detailing the exports of each merchant on separate lines. However, in all but three cases, they stated that they had received nothing. The first entry is the most complete (ship 1, p. 56):

De Willelmo Haddon, indigena, [pro] 4000 pellibus lanutis in 10 fardellis facientibus 16½ sacco, 40 pelles	cust' et subs' nichil per breve domini regis de magno sigillo suo datum 2° die Septembris anno regni regis predicti secundo [2 Sept. 1462]

All but three<sup>5</sup> of the further entries in the particulars refer back to this first one, as ship 2 (p. 56) illustrates.

De Willelmo Haddon, indigena, [pro] 10,500 pellibus lanutis in 26 fardellis facientibus 43¾ sacco	cust £14 11s 8d subs £72 18s 4d	nichil per breve predictum
--	--	---------------------------------------

When marking up the first entry, the auditor struck through nichil ... secundo in the second column and entered 111s 1½d £27 15s 6¾d above that. These were the correct amounts for Haddon's exports of woolfells, customs being charged at the indigenous rate of 6s 8d per 240 woolfells and subsidy at 33s 4d per 240 woolfells. But that only raises the question of whether Haddon paid customs and subsidy on his exports or not.

When marking up the following entries, the auditor simply struck the words nichil per breve predictum through, leaving the charge for customs and subsidy to stand. Once again, this raises the question: Did Haddon and the other wool exporters actually pay customs and subsidy, or did they not?

The mystery deepens if we shift our focus to the summaries of income on an opening (usually at the bottom of the recto side). Here, the customers initially calculated receipts from customs, subsidies and Calais duties as if all the nichil entries were valid. Take, for instance, the summary on f. 2<sup>r</sup> of the account (p. 56). As the particulars were handed in to the Exchequer, the summary read:

<sup>5</sup> The exceptions are the entries for John Parker (ship 22, p. 68), William Bowell and William Canon (ship 23, p. 68) and victualler of Calais, John Wode (ship 24, p. 69), where the customers did not enter the words nichil per breve predictum. The summations of income at the end of the opening (p. 69, 70) distinguish these entries as de gratis onere from all others, which are designated as de superonere. It would, therefore, seem that Parker, Bowell, Canon and Wode paid customs and subsidies in cash, but no one else did.

Summa hujus partis	pellium lanutarum mercatorum societatis stapule Calesie 14,500 pelles facientes 60 saccos, 100 pelles	cust' Nichil per breve regis predictum
	exitus coketti proveniencia de 2 mercatores	subs' Nichil per idem breve
Summa hujus partis 4d

On the face of it, then, the customers would seem to have taken in no more than 4d in fees for producing cockets for two merchants. However, when the auditor marked up the particulars, he struck through Nichil ... predictum and Nichil ... breve and interlined the sums due, leaving the customers on the hook for £120 17s ¼d, as shown below.

Summa hujus partis	pellium lanutarum mercatorum societatis stapule Calesie 14,500 pelles facientes 60 saccos, 100 pelles	cust' £20 2s 9½d
	exitus coketti proveniencia de 2 mercatores	subs' £100 13s 10¾d
Summa hujus partis £120 17s ¼d

Once again, it would appear that the wool exporters originally paid no customs and subsidy, but were somehow subsequently charged.

Judging from the account alone, the customers originally calculated the amount of money theoretically due for customs and subsidy on each individual shipment, but did not collect any money (nichil) because the king had ordered them to refrain from doing so on 2 Sept. 1462, as the first entry states (nichil per breve domini regis de magno sigillo suo datum 2<sup>o</sup> die Septembris anno regni regis predicti secundo). On reviewing the particulars, the auditor regarded the customers as being responsible for all the money (£1961 5s 5d), unless and until the full Exchequer allocated the corresponding sum to them.

Once the account was presented to the full Exchequer, the allocation was granted, as the enrolled account records.<sup>6</sup>

Et respondet in rotulo secundo regis Edwardi iii<sup>ji</sup> in civitate Eborum post alia debita sua.*

While the entry in the enrolled account clears up some issues, it raises other questions. It is clear that the petition of the customers was successful: The sum due for customs and subsidy on the staple merchants' exports of wool and woollens to Calais (£1961 5s 5d) was allocated to them, so that the Exchequer no longer held them, but rather the mayor of the Calais staple, John Walden, responsible for accounting for this sum, which he proceeded to do in the pipe roll<sup>7</sup> (Appendix I 5). However, what happened to the money between export and accounting is less clear. At the beginning, the enrolled account states that the money was paid to John Walden (pro denariis ... solutis), but later on states that Walden retained (pro denariis ... retentis) the money in the name of the staple company by authority of a patent of Edward IV. However, no such patent letter was entered on the patent roll.

These quandries are resolved by the record of the deliberations and decisions of the full Exchequer in regard to the customers' petitions,<sup>8</sup> to which the enrolled account refers. Here the customers first referred to the patent granted to the staple company on 2 Sept. 1462, which had been copied onto the King's Remembrancer's Memoranda Roll<sup>9</sup> (Appendix I 1). They then proffered (1) a writ under the great seal dated 2 Sept. 1462 directed to the London wool customers, which was copied into the record of the hearing (Appendix I 2); (2) a writ under the great seal dated 2 Sept. 1462 directed to the treasurer and barons of the Exchequer, which had been copied onto the King's Remembrancer's Memoranda Roll<sup>10</sup> (Appendix I 3); and (3) an indenture drawn up between John Walden and the customers on 31 May 1463, which was also copied into the record of the hearing (Appendix I 4).

It is the indenture which clears up the mystery of what happened to the money: There was none. Instead of hard cash, Walden received diverse obligacions of custume and subsidie to be payd at diverse dayes amountyng to the somme of £1961 5s 5d from the customers. These obligacions were most probably informal, holograph debt instruments,<sup>11</sup> in which the merchant committed himself to paying the customs and subsidies he owed on his exports of staple goods on a certain date. Since these obligations were in fact transferred from the customers to Walden on 31 May 1461 without further legal ado, one can only assume that they were made out to the customers and/or to the bearer of the instrument.

<sup>11</sup> On the debt instruments current at this time, see M.M. Postan, 'Private financial instruments in medieval trade', Vierteljahrsschrift für Sozial- und Wirtschaftsgeschichte 23, 1930, repr. idem, Medieval Trade and Finance, Cambridge: CUP, 1973, p. 29-40.

This was perfectly legitimate: The parliamentary grant which authorized the collection of wool subsidy<sup>12</sup> gave wool exporters six months to pay the first half of their obligations to the crown and a further six months to pay up in full. Moreover, it made good economic and strategic sense. After all, a merchant did not have the wherewithal to pay the customs and subsidy he owed to the crown until he had sold his wool on the continent, and (as the parliamentary grant stipulates) 26s 8d of the wool subsidy of 33s 4d/sack was earmarked for wages and victuals of the Calais garrison and for the staple merchants themselves. Having the treasurer of Calais collect on the obligations in Calais – where most of the proceeds were to be spent anyway – after the sale of the wool and having the treasurer account for these funds in one fell swoop made good administrative sense. And that is in fact what Walden did. The pipe roll records his receipts from various customers in 1462/63 in accordance with the parliamentary grant (Appendix I 5). With that, responsibility for the sum due for customs and subsidy on the staple merchants' exports of wool and woolfells to Calais (£1961 5s 5d) passed from the customers to the treasurer of Calais. Consequently, it can be fairly said that the customers paid this sum to Walden (in the form of the various obligations handed over on 31 May 1463) and that he retained the money (in accordance with the parliamentary grant).

HUGH WICHE

Only connoisseurs of English administrative history will realize how strange the customers' record and the auditor's mark up of Hugh Wiche's exports on 20 May 1463 (ship 30, p. 71-72) actually are. On the face of it, the customers' entry seems to be very much the same sort of thing we have just been discussing: Wiche had obtained a patent from the king on 20 Nov. 1462 which licensed him to export wool free of customs and subsidy, until these charges amounted to £100. However, the entry is distinctly odd: the customers charged him nothing for customs or Calais duties, but did impose a charge of £29 13s 4d for subsidy.

Summa 22 sacci, 13 clavi lane in 21 pokes	cust' Nichil per breve domini regis nunc Edwardi iij<sup>ti</sup> datum 20<sup>o</sup> die Novembris anno regni sui secundo [20 Nov. 1462] sub' pro Calesia et mercatoribus stapule £29 13s 4d deveria Calesie Nichil per breve

Dividing this sum by the number of sacks of wool (22¼) yields a subsidy rate (26s 8d/sack) which does not correspond either to the indigenous (33s 4d/sack) or to alien (100s/sack) rate. Worse yet, when the auditor marked up the account, he struck through the words Nichil ... secundo in the first line of the second column, £29 13s 4d in the second line and Nichil per breve in the third line. Above these lines, he entered charges for customs and subsidy which correspond to the alien rates (10s/sack customs, 100s/sack subsidy) and imposed Calais duties on the shipment, so that the entry then read

Summa 22 sacci, 13 clavi lane in 21 pokes	cust' £11 2s 6d sub' pro Calesia et mercatoribus stapule £111 5s deveria Calesie 14s 10d

Here, again, it is the record of the hearing of the customers' account before the full Exchequer which clears up the mysteries. The customers began by petitioning for allocation of £14 16s 8d paid to the treasurer of Calais, Walter Blount kt., on Wiche's exports to Italy, which had been licensed by the king (Appendix II 3). This corresponded to 13s 4d/sack out of the wool subsidy, as the parliament of Reading had mandated in its grant.<sup>13</sup> In support of this petition, they proffered the king's mandate to the customers of 20 Nov. 1462 (Appendix II 4) and an indenture recording the corresponding payment to Blount (Appendix II 6). The Exchequer accepted these arguments and granted the allocation.

Thereupon the customers petitioned for allocation of £10 3s 4d paid to the victualler of Calais, John Wode esq. As the record of the hearing states, this sum covered both Wiche's exports (specified as 22 sacks only)<sup>14</sup> and Wode's own shipment (8½ sacks: ship 24, p. 69) at 6s 8d/sack out of the wool subsidy, as had been mandated by the Reading parliament. In support of this petition, they referred to the king's mandate of 20 Nov. 1462 and proffered the indenture recording payment (in the form of obligations) to Wode (Appendix II 7). The Exchequer accepted these arguments and granted the allocation.

Only then did the customers petition for exoneration for £29 13s 4d, which Wiche had retained, out of the total charge of £123 2s 4d which the auditor had imposed on them for customs, subsidy and Calais duties on Wiche's exports. In so doing, they referred (1) to the king's patent of 20 Nov. 1462 (Appendix II 3), by which Edward had licensed Wiche to export cloth or wool and woolfells from London to Italy without payment of customs or subsidy – excepting the 20s/sack from the subsidy of wools appointed for Calais and 6s 8d from the subsidy of wools earmarked for the mayor and merchants of the Calais staple by the parliamentary grant – in repayment of a loan of £100;<sup>15</sup> (2) the mandate to the London wool customers which they had already cited (Appendix II 4); and (3) the corresponding mandate to the Exchequer of 20 Nov. 1462 (Appendix II 5). Then they proffered (4) the indenture they had drawn up with Wiche on 24 May 1463, recording the retention of £29 13s 4d on his exports, which had been customed four days previously (Appendix II 8), and referred (5) to the billa de mutuo (Appendix II 1-2) which documented the original loan.<sup>16</sup> The Exchequer accepted these arguments and granted the exoneration.

<sup>13</sup> The customers referred to the copy of this act in the King's Remembrancer's Memoranda Rolls: TNA: PRO, E159/231 Recorda Easter m 20.

<sup>14</sup> Since the indenture was drawn up on 12 Mar. 1463, Wode could not know exactly how much wool Wiche would export on 20 May 1463.

<sup>15</sup> This patent had, as the record of the hearing shows, been communicated by the Chancery to the Exchequer and copied onto the Originalia Rolls (E371) for 2 Edw. IV.

<sup>16</sup> This cross-reference is curious. The record of the hearing before the Exchequer refers to the King's Remembrancer's Memoranda Roll of 2 Edward IV (E159/239 Recorda Michaelmas m 25d). However that entry (Appendix II 1) not only refers to a patent dated 10

It is the exception made in the patent, earmarking for Calais a total 26s 8d out of the wool subsidy due on each sack of wool, which explains the customers' curious entry, recording a charge pro Calesia et mercatoribus stapule of £29 13s 4d (26s 8d/sack). This is exactly what parliament had mandated and the patent stipulated – 20s/sack were earmarked for Calais and a further 6s 8d/sack for the mayor and merchants of the Calais staple – and it demonstrates to us that – for the Exchequer – the first issue to be resolved in regard to Wiche's exports was whether the customers had complied with the terms of the parliamentary grant. After all, what Wiche was allowed to retain was only what was left over from the wool subsidy on his exports after the payments mandated by the parliamentary grant had been effected. The indentures the customers had drawn up with Walter Blount and John Wode proved to the Exchequer's satisfaction that they had complied with the terms of the parliamentary grant, while the indenture with Wiche recorded that he had retained the remainder of the wool subsidy due on his exports, i.e. that which was left over after deduction of the 26s 8d/sack earmarked for Calais and the mayor and merchants of the staple there. This points us to the fact that the London wool customers had charged Wiche customs and subsidy on his wool not at the full alien rate (10s/sack customs, 100s/sack subsidy), but rather at the Venetian rate (10s/sack customs, 43s 4d/sack subsidy), as had been mandated by Edward IV on 11 Feb. 1462.<sup>17</sup>

However, the Exchequer was not going to give up the principle that it was its job to collect the crown's income to the full. If the alien rate of wool subsidy was 100s/sack, then that was what the Exchequer was going to demand. Indeed, that was what the auditor had charged the customers with: The total charge of £123 2s 4d which he imposed on the customers for Wiche's exports was calculated at the alien rates for wool not being shipped to Calais (10s/sack customs, 100s/sack subsidy and 8d/sack Calais duties). Therefore, the customers petitioned for exoneration for the remaining £63 15s 8d (Appendix II 9). In order to buttress their petition, the customers referred to the documents they had cited in their first petition regarding Wiche (Appendix II 2-5). The Exchequer only agreed to exonerate them for the remainder of the subsidy by warrant of a privy seal writ dated 1 Mar. 1465 (Appendix II 10), in which Edward IV stated that it was not the crown's intention to charge Wiche subsidy at the full alien rate, but only at the (Venetian) rate of 53s 4d/sack.<sup>18</sup> The king therefore directed the Exchequer to exonerate both Hugh and the customers for any subsidy charged to them by the auditor over and above that rate. The Exchequer bowed to the monarch's will, but –

Apr. 1461, but it is also struck through. In the margin at the end of the document is entered: Vacat hic, quia intratur termino Hillarii anno tercio rotulo 8° (E159/240 Recorda Hilary m 8: Appendix II 2). Clearly, the scribe who entered the record of the customers' hearing was unaware of the cancellation of the first entry.

<sup>18</sup> This was clearly to Wiche's advantage. After all, if he was charged the Venetian rate (retaining 26s 8d/sack), he could export 75 sacks of wool before exhausting his quota. If he was charged the full alien rate (retaining 73s 4d/sack), he could only export 27 sacks and 14 cloves of wool.

being, as a body, very much a stickler for the rules – dryly noted that the customers were still on the hook for 14s 10d for Calais duties, a debt they discharged in the following year.

HENRY DE MONTE, JACOBUS DE SANDERICO, JOHN GODFRAY, EXPORTING WOOL IN THE KING'S NAME

In the case of the three alien merchants who exported the king's wool to Italy in his name and for his profit, the entries in the customers' account and the auditor's mark ups are straightforward. In each case, the customers entered cust' sb' Nichil per breve domini regis (or variants thereof) and, beneath that, deveria Calesie Nichil per breve (predictum). The auditor struck the Nichil clauses through and entered the correct charges, calculating customs and subsidy at the alien rates and imposing Calais duties, since the wool was not being transported to the staple. When the customers came to account, they petitioned the Exchequer for exoneration for customs, subsidy and Calais duties which the auditor had charged them on these shipments, always citing (1) the patent letter appointing the alien in question to export a named amount of wool free of customs, subsidy and Calais duties, (2) the corresponding mandate to the customers ordering them to allow the alien to do so and (3) the corresponding mandate to the Exchequer, directing it to exonerate the customers for any sums charged against them for wool exported in pursuance of the king's patent. The Exchequer granted exoneration without further ado in all cases.

THE EARL OF KENT AND HIS FACTOR, JOHN REDE, EXPORTING HIDES

The exports of hides by William Neville, lord Fauconberg, earl of Kent, and his factor John Rede (ship 4, p. 57; ship 33, p. 74), for which the king had freed his kinsman from subsidy, were treated in the same manner by the customers and the auditor. The customers entered the correct customs charge and (either beneath or beside that) subs' nichil per breve (regis). The auditor struck these words through and entered the correct charge for subsidy. The customers charged Neville with Calais duties on 29 Oct. 1462 (ship 4), since the shipment was not destined for the staple, and left the charge off when entering Rede's exports, which were to be transported to Calais. When the customers came into the Exchequer to account,<sup>19</sup> they petitioned for exoneration of £19 7s 8½d for both shipments, calculating subsidy at the indigenous rate (100s/last) for the hides shipped by Rede and at the alien rate (106s 8d/last) for those shipped by Neville himself. In so doing, they left off the patent letter (since that had been cited in a previous account:<sup>20</sup> Appendix VI 1), but they did refer to the king's mandate to the London wool customers of 23 July 1462 (Appendix VI 2) and the corresponding mandate to the Exchequer of the same date (Appendix VI 3). The Exchequer accepted the petition as far as the hides exported by Neville were concerned, but judged that the customers were still on the hook for those exported by Rede.

WOOL CUSTOMS AND SUBSIDY II: E122/76/37, 23 JULY-10 DEC. 1464

In view of the aspects of the financial administration of England which we have just reviewed, the way the customers drew up their particulars of account and the way the auditor marked up the particulars should not seem too strange, although some things had changed since 2 Edward IV (1462/63). When drawing up their accounts in 1464, the customers dispensed with summing up the income from customs and subsidy in each ship and simply summed up the proceeds from all ships on a given folio at the bottom of the verso side of the leaf. They first of all reckoned up the customs (at 6s 8d/sack) and then the subsidy pro Calesia appunctuatum (at 20s/sack), i.e. as mandated by the parliamentary grant in 1454. On a new line, they then entered Et de residuo subsidii predicti, videlicet de quolibet sacco 13s 4d, attingente ad [amount] Nichil per breve domini regis (or breve predictum). When reviewing the account, the auditor struck through attingente ... breve regis and interlined onerantur de [amount], so that the entry read Et onerantur de [amount] de residuo subsidii predicti, videlicet de quolibet sacco 13s 4d. In the hearing on their account before the full Exchequer,<sup>21</sup> the customers petitioned for exoneration for £358 11s 2¾d, with which the auditor had charged them for a portion of the wool subsidy (13s 4d/sack) on their exports of wool (232¾ sacks and 6 cloves) and woolfells (73,189 woolfells, equivalent to 304¾ sacks and 49 woolfells). In support of their petition, they cited the king's patent of 16 Sept. 1462 (Appendix VII 1), by which the king had granted to the staple company this portion of the subsidy on every sack of wool exported from England to Calais by members and non-members of the staple company alike in repayment of the staple company's expenditures in the defense of Calais, which amounted to £40,917 19s 2½d, less the 3000 marks (£2000) the staple company had forgiven the king (doubtless in order to obtain the patent). Furthermore, they referred to the king's mandate of 16 Sept. 1462 under the great seal directed to them (which they retained) and the corresponding mandate under the great seal to the treasurer and barons of the Exchequer.<sup>22</sup> The record then laboriously recorded all amounts previously retained by the staple company in accordance with the king's patent (£4288 4s 7½d). Finally, the customers proffered the indenture they had drawn up with the mayor of the staple, John Thryске, on 5 Oct. 1464. The Exchequer accepted these arguments and granted the customers the exoneration they had requested, noting that Thryске was now responsible for accounting for this amount.

Accounting for the remaining 20s/sack of the subsidy, which parliament had earmarked for Calais in its grant in 1454, proceeded here in exactly the same fashion as in 1462/63. First, the customers petitioned for exoneration for £357 6s 8d paid to Walter Blount, the treasurer of Calais, on the said exports of wool and woollfells at the rate of 13s 4d/sack, citing the parliamentary grant and the mandate of 18 June 1461 under the great seal directed to the them (which they retained). Then they proffered three indentures drawn up with Blount, which were copied onto the record of the hearing, documenting receipt of: (1) £224 9s 5d on 7 Aug. 1464; (2) £120 13s 8d on 28 Sept. 1464; and (3) £12 3s 4d on 30 Nov. 1464. Then they petitioned for exoneration for £178 13s 4d paid to John Wode, victualler of Calais, on the said exports, citing the great seal mandate of 18 June 1461 and proffering two indentures drawn up with Wode, which were copied onto the record of the hearing, documenting receipt of: (1) £111 12s 7½d on 7 Aug. 1464; and (2) £67 8½d on 26 Sept. 1464. In both cases, the Exchequer accepted these arguments and exonerated the customers as requested, noting that Blount and Wode were now responsible for accounting for these sums.

So there is really no mystery at all to why the customers drew up their accounts in this particular way. Through one channel or the other, the Calais staple company received all the proceeds of the wool subsidy. However, the customers had to account separately for the 20s/sack mandated by parliament and the 13s 4d/sack granted by the king because they were warrented differently, the one by parliamentary grant, the other by patent letter. The auditor enforced the Exchequer principle that the customers were on the hook for the entire subsidy unless and until they were exonerated by the full Exchequer.

The only other matter which might cause some slight puzzlement is the king's exports through his attorney, Walter Blount (ships 8, 10-16, p. 233-8). Here, in summing up the income, the customers entered the amount of king's wool, and then wrote Nichil per breve regis (or predictum or etc.). On reviewing the account, the auditor struck the Nichil entry through, adding the correct customs and subsidy charge immediately after on the same line. When they came in for their hearing before the full Exchequer, the customers petitioned for exoneration for £580 9¾d with which the auditor had charged them for customs and subsidy on the 290 sacks and 1 clove of the king's wool which Blount had exported. In so doing, they referred to the king's patent of 3 July 1463,<sup>23</sup> which provides yet another example of Edward IV's financial legerdemain. In repayment for the arrears which Walter Blount had accumulated as treasurer of Calais both during the reign of Henry VI (which were to be determined by royal commissioners and certified into the chancery) and in the first few months of Edward IV's reign (to 25 Oct. 1461), £10,000 was to be taken from the parliamentary subsidy which parliament had only just granted, employed by Blount, his factors and attorneys to buy up wool and woolfells in England (with the advice and assistance of John Prowte, a staple merchant), shipped to Calais in the king's name and at the king's risk and sold there. The customers proffered a royal mandate under the great seal directed to them on 30 July 1464 (Appendix VIII 1) and referred to the corresponding mandate under the great seal directed to the Exchequer on 3 July 1463 (Appendix VIII 2). The Exchequer granted the exoneration as requested.

<sup>22</sup> The record states that this mandate was copied in the King's Remembrancer's Memoranda Roll for 4 Edward IV among the brevia directa baronibus for Easter on m 11. This ought to be E159/241 Brevia directa baronibus Easter m 11, but it cannot be found anywhere in the Easter term.

TUNNAGE AND POUNDAGE

The only thing that is slightly out of the ordinary in the tunnage and poundage accounts for the years 1-4 Edward IV is that the monarch had – by royal mandate directed to the Exchequer and dated 11 Feb. 1 Edw. IV/1462<sup>24</sup> – permitted Venetian merchants to export tin and pewter vessels at the indigenous rate of poundage (1s/£) rather than the alien rate (2s/£) which had been mandated by parliament. Consequently, in their accounts (IV, p. 113-45 and VI, p. 195-223) the tunnage and poundage customers identified Venetian merchants exporting tin and pewter vessels as such (mercatores de Venicia), because they paid subsidy on these goods at the indigenous rate, while continuing in the hitherto accustomed fashion to distinguish indigenous and alien merchants exporting such products, since they paid poundage on tin and pewter vessels at the different rates parliament had laid down.

The customers' particulars of account were fiscal documents, forming an integral part of the procedure imposed on the customers when accounting for the crown's customs income before the Exchequer. As such, they were marked up by the auditor when he summed up the crown's income according to the various categories and tariffs. These marginated annotations form an integral part of the source and, in my view of it, deserve to be reproduced in full. I have done this in the following way. First of all, the auditor's summations of income at the end of each page or membrane (including the jottings reproducing the position of the counters on the counting table) have been reproduced as written in the account. Second, all other marginated notes (e.g. a cross or an asterisk indicating an error) are noted in the normal way in the critical apparatus. However, recording the eternally repetitive marginal notes on the tariff categories to which particular products belonged (panni ind', panni al', panni Hans' etc.) call for a different solution, since including them in the critical apparatus would simply blimp it up to no useful purpose. Consequently, I have indicated them in the text by employing superscript letters in angle brackets (e.g. <sup></sup>De Roberto Derlyngton) and resolving these in a block at the bottom of the page (Auditor's marginated notations L:  panni ind').

<sup>23</sup> This patent was not enrolled on the patent roll, but was communicated to the Exchequer and copied onto the Originalia roll for 3 Edward IV, m 31.

The problem of the hundredweight is exceedingly vexed. While it is well known that a hundredweight can correspond to 100 lb., 112 lb. or 120 lb. avoirdupois,<sup>25</sup> there is no way to know which of these three values applies when a customer writes c lb. or fractions and multiples thereof. Just occasionally, when the particulars of account and the controlment roll have survived, some insight is possible, for instance if one of the two records a particular merchant's exports of pewter vessels as di' c lb. vasorum stanni and the other the same goods as lvj lb. vasorum stanni.<sup>26</sup> But these cases are far too rare to inspire confident generalizing. Consequently, I have decided to leave the matter unsolved, marking the text in such a way that the reader can easily reconstruct the entry. The most common notation of weight – multiples of 'c' – has not been marked up. Thus 'iij<sup>c</sup> lb.' is simply transcribed as 300 lb. If the thousand sign was used, the number is marked with a cross: thus, 'ij M<sup>l</sup> lb.' is transcribed as 2000† lb. (but xx<sup>c</sup> lb. as 2000 lb.) If the sign for one half is used, this is indicated by an asterisk: thus, 'di' c lb.' is transcribed as 50* lb. (but 'l lb.' as 50 lb.) And finally, if the sign for one quarter is used, this is indicated by a double cross: thus, 'c q' lb.' is transcribed as 125‡ lb.

There is a further conundrum with the symbol for one thousand. Almost universally, the symbol on the left will be used in the accounts, but just occasionally – and, perhaps significantly, only with regard to furs<sup>27</sup> – the symbol on the right will be employed. I am almost convinced that both are equivalent and that the use of the one rather than the other has no significance whatsoever. However, it is far from uncommon that scholars utterly convinced of the rightness of their views have been subsequently shown to have been dead wrong. It is, therefore, best to record the use of the thousand symbol on the right, even if this variant is, in all probability, meaningless. I have used three stars (***) to indicate its use, e.g. 10,000** pellibus grey wombes (p. 134).

<sup>26</sup> Therefore, when transcribing entries regarding the export of pewter vessels, I have retained the hundredweight (e.g. pro 9 centenis vasorum stanni).

<sup>27</sup> Furs were counted in timbers (of 40 skins each) and thousands, each consisting of 25 timbers or 1000 skins: Robert Delort, Le commerce des fourrures en occident à la fin du moyen âge (vers 1300-vers 1450) (Bibliothèque des Écoles Françaises d'Athènes et de Rome fasc. 236), 2 vols., Rome 1978, vol. 2, p. 1157.

Diplomatic Notes on the Form of the Edition

The transcriptions of Latin documents in this edition observe the conventions of the Monumenta Germaniae Historica. The source texts (and all variants) are reproduced in normal type, while editorial intrusions are printed without exception in italics (e.g. mardre L3, in error). Unambiguous abbreviations are expanded silently (i.e. without use of square brackets or italics to indicate missing letters). u/v and i/j have been regularized silently to accord with pronunciation: thus vniuersalis in the source text is rendered universalis, while 'i' is transcribed if the letter is pronounced as a vowel (imperii), and 'j' if the letter is pronounced as a consonant, i.e. like the 'y' in 'you' (majestas), even if the source writes imperij and maiestas.

Personal names and place names are transcribed exactly as written and only regularized in the Index of People and Places.

Roman numerals are reproduced as Arabic numerals, except for the sovereign's ordinal (Henrici vijth). Arabic numerals which occur in the source texts are indicated by bold type. ob' is given as ½d, q' as ¼d and ob' q' as ¾d.

Following the convention in German, I have used a full stop after a number to indicate the ordinal rather than the cardinal, if a number is not written out. Thus, 27. die Januarii (p. 147) is to be understood as vicesimo septimo die Januarii, rather than viginti septem die Januarii.

When transcribing the customs accounts, I have numbered the ships consecutively in italics in square brackets. The individual paragraphs of longer texts have also been numbered in the same way. The reason for this is that the web version of the accounts and accounting materials for the Lancastrian period has no pagination, since the amount of text displayed on the screen depends on the size of the monitor and its resolution. Consequently, cross references – whether within a single document, from one document to another or in the indices – to 'page thus-and-such' are meaningless, and some internal sub-division of the text which can be linked in is unavoidable. Since some scholars will want to use the printed version of the edition and others the web edition, it is necessary to provide a common basis. Thus, if one scholar refers to ship No. 24 in the digital version of a particular account, those using the printed version will be able to find the vessel in question.

All dates and cross references in the source texts have been resolved in italics in square brackets in the text of the edition, rather than in footnotes.

If both the particulars of account and the controlment roll survive, certain variants have been suppressed to avoid inflating the text-critical apparatus. Thus, neither the substitution of 'y' in one text for 'i' in the other (e.g. Wilyyamson, Williamson) nor middle English plural variants (-es, -is, -ys etc.) have been noted in the apparatus criticus. In general, I have limited the notation of textual variants to those cases in which the variant spelling of a word changes the pronunciation. Thus, the variant federbeds will be noted against fetherbeds, but not fedderbeds or federbeddes against federbeds.

Punctuation is artificial and ignores all medieval full stops, commas and so forth. Since Latin is a syntactic language (like German), the eminently useful MGH convention – namely to employ punctuation (according to the pre-reform German rules) to mark up the grammatical structure of the sentence – has been employed here. I have also broken up the stylistically elegant, but utterly incomprehensible run-on Latin sentences of the source texts into manageable units.

Since we are dealing with late medieval administrative Latin, there are some cases which call for local by-laws.

First of all, there are a number of middle English words embedded in the Latin texts which have to be assigned a gender, since they are often modified by an abbreviated adjective (e.g. pro 1 parv' fetherbed). Since the adjectives are written out in a number of instances (pro 1 parvo fetherbed), I have arbitrarily imposed a masculine grammatical gender on all middle English words rather than litter the edition with apostrophes.

Second, the sources themselves are in a muddle as to whether the words custuma and *subsidiu*m are singular or plural, and usually avoid the problem by writing cust' and subs'. If a scribe does write out the one or the other word, it is almost inevitable that he will contradict himself, writing custuma in one line and custume a few lines later. This muddle is not merely the result of scribal carelessness or low standards of Latinity. In the fifteenth century, it was possible to differentiate between the collective noun (in the singular) denoting the charges to be paid and the individual sums (in the plural) which each merchant rendered. Even bearing this in mind, however, scribes are simply not consistent. Taking each individual text as a whole, I have done my best to reproduce what the scribe seemed to be thinking.

Appendix III: Henry de Monte, attorney of the king

- 1 *Edward IV to the treasurer and barons of the Exchequer: Since he wished to export 206 sacks and 13 cloves of his own English wool (de lana nostra de crescencia hujus regni nostri Anglie) to Italy, the king by patent appointed Henry de Monte, merchant of Liguria, to export the said wool (ad predictos ducentos et sex saccos et tresdecim clavos lane nostre predictae claccate, berdate et mundate aut non claccate, berdate seu mundate) in a carrack or galley (or carracks or galleys) at whatever time seems best from London via the Strait of Gibraltar (per strictus de Marrok) to Italy; the king also ordered the London wool customers to permit de Monte to export the said wool without hindrance and without payment of customs, subsidy or other duties, provided the wool is weighed in the presence of the customers and controller in London and the weight of the wool and the number of sarplers it was packed in are entered in the customers' books (de pondere et numero ejusdem in libris custume et subsidii predictis per ipsos customarios et collectores inserto et inscripto). Therefore the king orders the treasurer and barons to allow the customers all sums due to the crown for these wool shipments when they account, provided they profer the king's writ directed to them and demonstrate that the exports were entered in their records (visis mandato nostro ac insercione et inscripcionem predictis). — 1462 Feb. 24 (24th die Februarii anno regni nostri primo). #### Appendix VIII: Walter Blount, exporting the king's wool

- 1 Edward IV to the London wool customers: Referencing his patent of 3 July 1463, in which he – in order to repay for repayment of the treasurer of Calais, Walter Blount of Mountjoy kt., (1) for the arrears of payments made to the captain and lieutenant of Calais and all others who had received salaries from the treasurer (soldiers, crossbowmen, carpenters, masons and other artisans) which had been accumulating up to 3 Mar. 1461, as certified by the king's commissioners to be named in a patent; and (2) the corresponding arrears which had accumulated between 3 Mar. and 25 Oct. 1461 – had authorized payment of £10,000 (in two equal portions) to the treasurer from the first and second halves of the parliamentary subsidy granted by the last parliament (beginning on 29 Apr. 1463) and due on 1

Aug. and 11 Nov. 1463. In his patent, the king had authorized Blount to expend these funds to buy wool and woolfells in England (with the advice and assistance of John Prowte, staple merchant) and export it to Calais in the king's name and at the king's risk. Consequently, the king orders the customers to permit Blount to export the said wool to Calais without hindrance in accordance with the terms of the patent. — 1463 July 30. Westminster.

II WOOL CUSTOMS AND SUBSIDY PARTICULARS OF ACCOUNT 29 SEPT. 1462 – 16 JULY 1463

Particulars of account of John Smyth and Thomas Thorndon for wool customs and subsidy in London in the period from 29 Sept. 1462 to 16 July 1463.

L TNA: PRO, E122/73/35. Original particulars of account bound as a codex (quire structure: VIII<sup>[16]</sup>). ff. 13<sup>r</sup>-16<sup>v</sup> are blank. The leaves were not numbered in the Middle Ages, but the first 13 folios were numbered very recently in pencil. Parchment. Unsealed (there is no hole for passing the tag of an Exchequer seal visible in the codex or its cover). On the inside of the back cover jottings (Nota bene de festo Transfiguracionis; continet) which have nothing to do with the account. The auditor has entered a dot (a) above the total of each merchant's exports of staple merchandise, (b) above each merchant's charges for customs, subsidy and Calais duties, (c) above each item in the summation of the exports on an opening and the corresponding issues of customs, subsidy and duties, (d) above each item in the summation of the issues on f. 12<sup>v</sup> and the corresponding totals of customs, subsidy and duties.

PARTICULARS OF ACCOUNT
2 FEB. – 6 AUG. 1463

Particulars of account of Ralph Wolseley and John Colrede for the issues of tunnage and poundage in London during the period from 2 Feb. to 6 Aug. 1463

L1 TNA: PRO, E122/194/14. Original particulars of account bound in Exchequer style (2 membranes, containing all exports during the accounting period; there is no evidence of contemporaneous membrane numbering). Parchment. Unsealed. There are a few holes in the parchment, but none occasions loss of text. There are no dots above the merchandise totals and subsidy charges because there was no controlment roll, the account being absque aliquo contrarotulamento Johannis Pylkington contrarotulatoris, as noted in the heading. London' Particule Radulphi Wolseley et Johannes Colrede de In entered at the very top of m 1.

L2 TNA: PRO, E122/194/13. Original particulars of account bound in Exchequer style (5 membranes,<sup>1</sup> containing all imports for the accounting period, numbered contemporaneously in Arabic numerals in the upper right hand corner of the membrane, often in the stitching. These import membranes were originally bound separately, then sewn on to the back of the export account L1, and have since come astray.) Parchment. Unsealed. There are no dots above the merchandise totals and subsidy charges because there was no controlment roll. Tempore Johannis Colrede anno 2° et 3° Edwardi Quarti entered at the top of m 1. De carraka Jaspera Amader entered at the top of m 3, in the stitching, because the entries for the carrack were continued from one membrane to the next. De navi Cornelii Cornelisson entered at the top of m 4, in the stitching, for the same reason.

WOOL CUSTOMS AND SUBSIDY
23 JULY – 10 DEC. 1464

Particulars of account of the London wool customers Robert Rufford and John Brampton for the issues of the wool customs and subsidies in London in the accounting period from 23 July to 10 Dec. 1464

L TNA: PRO, E122/73/37. Original particulars of account bound as a codex (quire structure: IV<sup>8</sup>. The folios were pre-numbered in the Exchequer from 1 to 8 (in Roman numerals in the lower right-hand corner of the folio) before being sent out to the customers. The cover is contemporaneous but blank). Parchment. Unsealed (no hole visible for the tag of the Exchequer seal). The auditor has entered a dot (a) above the total of each merchant's exports of staple merchandise, (b) above each item in the summation of the exports in a particular ship and the corresponding issues of customs, subsidy and duties, (c) above each item in the summation of the exports on each folio (at the bottom of the verso side) and the corresponding issues of customs, subsidy and duties and (d) above each item in the summation of the issues on f. 8<sup>v</sup>. Tucked in between the account and the cover is an original writ of Edward IV dated 5 Dec. 1464, directing John Brampton to surrender the cocket to his successor in office, Humphrey Starky (this writ is transcribed at the end of the account).

INDEX OF PEOPLE AND PLACES

In accordance with current usage, the first names of Englishmen and -women have been standardized to their current forms. Thus Willelmus in the accounts is indexed as William and so forth. Italian and Spanish first names are given in the 'ablative' (Andrea, Beaceo, Roderigo rather than Andreas, Beaceus, Roderigus). The first names of other foreigners, who are largely Dutch and German, are normally indexed in something approaching their modern forms, e.g. Johannes, Jacob, Herman, Hugo rather than Hugh (which would indicate an Englishman). However, it is not possible to be entirely consistent. Take, as an example, Willelmus. Is one to index Hanseatic merchants as Wilhelm, but Dutch merchants and shippers as Willem or Wim and the Dinanters as Guillaume? To do so would simply be to introduce incredible confusion, entirely leaving aside the intractable problem of distinguishing between merchants of Dutch and Hanseatic origin. Therefore, in a number of cases I have indexed Dutch and German merchants' first names in the current English form: e.g. Paul, William, Laurence, Andrew, Henry.

Family names have been grouped, where possible, in the index, with cross references leading the reader from the variants to the main entry, which records all variant spellings in parentheses. However, given the inconsistency of the customers' scribes, I have found it impossible to resolve all doubts and have therefore tried to steer a middle course between the splitters and the lumpers. There are cases where there can be no doubt that divergent spellings denote one and the same merchant. For instance, the tunnage and poundage customers record imports of iron and nails by one Sauncho Surasso in the ship of Peter Alenya on 1 July 1463 (p. 143), but the petty customers recorded the same freight in the same ship on the same day as belonging to Sancho Surnesse (p. 98). On the other hand, there are cases where I am all but certain that variant spellings denote one person, yet am troubled by nagging doubts. For instance, the skipper variously recorded as Bowen (Baven, Bave) Naitson (Naitson, Neytson, Noytson) is almost certainly identical with the skipper recorded as Bave Nautson. But enough doubt remained that I recorded the names separately and referred back and forth ('cf. Nautson').

The order of the family names in the index is phonological, so that, for instance, 'y' is alphabetized as 'i'. Any additional information not given in the accounts themselves appears in square brackets.

Place names are in small capitals.

INDEX OF SUBJECTS

The index is structured so as to serve as a glossary. Hence, the main entry is under the word as it appears in the sources (zinziber), and a cross-reference leads the reader from the modern English term to the main entry (ginger see zinziber). If a term is in Middle English, the plural form is also given (e.g. alle hafte, -s); if in Latin, the genitive (e.g. allec, ecis). More than one reference per page is not noted.
